The Cause of Ireland's Material Grievances at Present Moment.

Redmond Scores Enemies of Irish Party at Big Longford Meeting.

Would Welcome Any Man Who Would Assist Nation's Cause.

WATCHING THE TRIAL OF FARRELL

John Redmond, the leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, addressed a big meeting held at Longford on Sunday under the direction of the United Irish League.

Speaking of the prosecution of Mr. Farrell, Mr. Redmond said that the jury for the trial was empaneled, and if it was fairly constituted on the same principles and in the same way that juries were empaneled in England and Scotland, Mr. Farrell would have no fear or hesitation in submitting his conduct to their verdict. There was just one contrast, Mr. Redmond said, which he wished to draw before leaving the subject. The new would-be leaders of Irish public opinion, with no record behind them, who today were denouncing the policy and action of the Irish party, were being put on the back by every anti-Irish paper in England, from the Times downward, while the leaders of the Irish party, whom they attacked, were being singled out for arrest and prosecution. "This one fact," said the speaker, "ought to be sufficient to point the moral of the political situation for the Irish people."

Mr. Redmond then proceeded to deal with a subject to which he devoted a considerable portion of his speech, namely the question of the overtaxation of Ireland, by which, he said, the country had been robbed of between £400,000,000 and £500,000,000 within the last hundred years. This rested on the authority of a recent Commission. England appointed the tribunal, selected the jury, and now the verdict having been given against her, it is impossible for her to dispute it. The speaker then went on to point to the provisions under the act of union by which Ireland was only to contribute to the general expenses of the empire in proportion to her resources and wealth. This overtaxation, Mr. Redmond said, was the greatest of all her material grievances and was the cause, in one shape or another, of every one of the material grievances of Ireland at this moment. England had been no strong, vigorous and universal movement in Ireland against this imposition almost made one despair of one's country. Here was a cause for union of all classes, creeds and politics, and such a union, if real and determined, would have secured a remedy. Mr. Redmond continued to say that he was recently asked why he would not inaugurate an All-Ireland movement on this question. They had had what was called an All-Ireland movement on the question in the Irish Financial Reform League, and that kept the question alive for the last ten years. They would raise the question again when Parliament met, but no serious headway could be made unless the people of Ireland created a strong movement behind the party to support it.

The speaker then came to deal with the letter from Cardinal Logue, which was published on Saturday. His Eminence called for a cessation of the bickering among Irish Nationalist members. "With all my heart," declared Mr. Redmond, "I echo his words. I hope his words will have some effect with the bickers. They have no application to me. I am no bickerer. They have no application to any colleagues in the Irish party. The Irish party is a body of men consisting of seventy or eighty bound together by the Parliamentary pledge, and I say that these men are united by a common action, and among them there is no bickering. The bickering is outside our ranks, and I sincerely hope that this Eminence's counsel will have some effect with the bickerers and dissensionists. Let us have union not only in our ranks, but if we can let only in our ranks, but if we can let us get assistance from outside." For his part he would welcome any man who would help the cause of the Irish people, and give assistance on any Irish question. So far from repelling such men he would welcome them with all his heart, but he was bound in conscience to say that his profound conviction was that in the long run they must rely upon their own Nationalist movement, and that if they allowed their movement to go slack or to be broken, or allowed the Nationalist party to be disbanded, then all the so-called All-Ireland movement would not be worth a pin of salt.

In his concluding sentences Mr. Redmond called on the people to strengthen the Nationalist organization, and to scorn, as their fathers did, all the sacrifices and sufferings that might perhaps be threatened to them by the ruling powers of the day. "What," he asked, "is a little imprisonment to an Irish Nationalist? My own feeling always was that I was never worth my salt until I slept on a plank bed. Let the young men be regardless absolutely of consequences such as these. Let them hand themselves together, let their English masters see that they are in earnest—that they will stand no nonsense on this Irish question, that we will have to be governed as free born men, that we will have to be governed by laws made by ourselves, as in the case all over the British Empire except in Ireland; let them see that we are determined that, pending the realization of that hope, if legislation is not fast enough, we will use other methods of promoting reforms; let them understand once and for all that if they can not govern Ireland by the methods of freedom, that they will be obliged to govern Ireland at all; let them understand that it is a difficult and unpleasant and hateful task to attempt to govern this country against the will of the people, and the moment the people of England realize that they will be on the threshold of your freedom."

AFTER FIRST PLACE.

Hibernians Hold Great Rally and Plan For the Future.

Extra chairs were required for the accommodation of the large number present at the meeting of the Hibernians at the Hibernian hall of last week. The hint in these columns that some radical action was contemplated put all on the qui vive and served to show that the true Irish spirit exists in the breast of every member of Division 1, the oldest of the city. After receiving the application of Thomas McCabe and electing F. B. Breslin to membership the Visiting Committee reported that Martin Norton was still seriously ill. When the other business had been transacted President Clines arose and set forth the reasons for the circular the members had received. President Clines explained the necessity for members attending the meetings, congratulating the large numbers assembled and stating that the officers were ever ready for any duty and only wanted Division 1 to be again the leader. His remarks were well received and showed that all were ready to aid in again moving into first place.

Thomas Walsh saw many whom he thought had left the country, but it was a pleasure to him to see them still living and going along well. Having weathered all storms and with a record for true Hibernianism that can't be surpassed, and the members now knowing their location, the division will now resume its former vigor and activity.

Former President Martin Cusick paid a glowing tribute to the members of the past in a masterly review of the history of the division, which was never in a better condition. He urged all to stand by their chosen officers, that the organization might enjoy still greater prosperity, as within its ranks will always be found the best class of Irishmen. Thomas Garvey, William M. Higgins, Capt. Tom Fitzgibbon, Robert J. Hagan, Thomas Dolan and a number of others also spoke, saying that the members were firmer than ever in their devotion to the Ancient Order, but that many had failed to attend meetings during the review of the history of the division. The officers, in whose hands their interests were absolutely safe. The result of the meeting was most gratifying and show that the Hibernian spirit is still undiminished. Another such meeting is looked for on next Friday night.

CORK HAS NO CRIME.

People with Irish blood will be very proud of the report that comes from Cork, especially now that English statesmen are discouraging cloverleafed. The Cork assizes, called attention to the fact that there were only two cases to be tried—one for stealing postal orders, another for perjury. With the exception of these two there were no charges of crime in Cork for the session. Cork is a seaport with over 100,000 population. And yet we hear continually in Parliament of Irish crime. We do not know if the justice is a Catholic or not, but in addressing the jury he gave the credit of this marvelous condition to the parochial schools. It is due entirely to the hard work and honesty and self-denial of those ladies and men who with a higher ideal of the Christian life devote their lives, by precept and example, to instruct those whom they teach and among whom they live. The Judges of Limerick and Boyle witnessed similar conditions in those cities.

CAR SEALER BREAKS LEG.

William H. Kennedy, employed as a car sealer by the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway, and residing with his father, Patrick Kennedy, at 218 West Sixth street, New Albany, met with an accident Tuesday night that will lay him up for some time. Kennedy was checking up a train of cars and clunked on top of one that was taken to the hospital, where he is resting easy but suffering much pain.

JUBILEE ORATORIO.

Preparations are going on in Rome at the musical school founded by Abbe Perosi, the composer and director of the Sistine Chapel, for the rendering of a new composition of his on which he has been working for some time, and which is intended to render honor to the Pope during his jubilee year. The new composition is an oratorio entitled "Soul," and competent musicians who have had a chance to examine it declare that it is perhaps the best of the Abbe's creations. Over four hundred children attend the school of music founded by the composer, and will all take part in the rendering of the oratorio in the presence of the Pope, assisted by the members of the Sistine Chapel choir.

ANNIVERSARY

Celebration at St. Frances of Rome Church in Clifton.

Tomorrow the Rev. Thomas White and the Catholics of Clifton will celebrate with solemn and appropriate services the twentieth anniversary of the dedication of St. Frances of Rome church. This flourishing congregation originally consisted of but seven families, and upon this anniversary the energetic pastor and his people have cause for congratulation upon the steady growth of their number and the still brighter outlook for the future. Father White has done remarkable work during these years, erecting a church and school, both of which are now inadequate to the needs of the parish. Notwithstanding all he had to contend against Father White has almost entirely freed the congregation from debt, only $3,000 remaining to be paid, and when this is done a new church edifice that will surpass any in that section will replace the one now in use.

The solemn exercises will begin in the morning, when masses will be celebrated at 7:30 and 10 o'clock, but the principal celebration will take place at the solemn vespers at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, when the eloquent Father Hayes, of Bowling Green, will preach the sermon. Rev. Patrick Walsh, of the Sacred Heart church, who sang the first mass on the day of the dedication of St. Frances church, will sing the solemn vespers, and all the local clergy who possibly can be there will assist and occupy seats within the sanctuary. The musical programme will be of a high order and will be rendered by an augmented choir under the direction of Mrs. James J. Donahue. Father White will welcome all his friends and old members of the parish at this celebration.

FEDERATION.

Will Discuss General Matters and Plans For Fall and Winter.

The regular monthly meeting of the Federation of Catholic Societies will be held at the Catholic Women's club on Thursday, October 10. As the warm weather is now past it is hoped and expected by the officers that there will be a full attendance of the delegates to discuss general matters and lay out plans for the fall and winter sessions. A supply of the last number of the Federation Bulletin will be on hand for distribution among those present. The delegates are asked to bring with them such friends as they may see fit, and who will take an interest in Federation matters. The entertainment and literary part of the meeting will be in charge of the delegates from the various divisions of the A. O. I. and the lady delegates from the C. K. and L. of A. This will be added to by an address by the Rev. Edward J. Keenan, editor of the Glenside, which may be looked forward to with a certainty of pleasure and instruction. Owing to removal from the city, Thomas Garvey is no longer able to act as Secretary. His place has been filled by an appointment by the officers, James Kelly for the unexpired term. The officers earnestly urge all delegates to be present, and promise in advance to do all in their power to make the meeting one of a pleasant nature and instructive to all who attend.

HUMILIATE FAIRBANKS.

The friends of Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice President of the United States and candidate to succeed Theodore Roosevelt, feel greatly humiliated over his turning down the Indiana Methodist. Vice President Fairbanks aspired to be one of Indiana's lay delegates to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to be held in Baltimore next May at the lay electoral conference held last Friday at Columbus, Ind. There were twenty candidates, with seven lay delegates to be elected, and the contest was a spirited one. Six ballots were taken, and on the fifth the name of Vice President Fairbanks was withdrawn from the contest. There were 193 votes cast and ninety-five were necessary for election. On the first ballot the Vice President received seventy-nine votes, and on each subsequent ballot his vote grew smaller, until it reached thirty-eight, when his name was withdrawn. Much of the time of the conference was taken up with political speeches.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

Catholics throughout Kentucky should look out for two impostors who have been driven from several adjoining States. The two bogus priests, wearing the Oriental costume and soliciting for Catholic institutions in Chaldia, Assyria, are operating with false credentials and have quitted unsuspecting people of quite large sums of money.

WON'T WORRY THEM.

There is an Irish girl's face on one of the new United States gold coins. It is, of course, a pretty one, but some of unreasoning prejudices are complaining about it. They probably want the old-fashioned straight-nosed symbol. They will probably not see a sufficient number of the new coins, however, to keep up the fuss.

PAPAL EDICT

May Stop For The Future All Trading By Religious Orders.

Will Suppress Manufacture of Famous Benedictine and Chartreuse.

Must Comply With Orders Contained in the Last Encyclical.

NEW MOVE CAUSED MUCH SURPRISE

A Rome cablegram in the New York World of last Sunday says a general order has been sent out by the Vatican authorities to all heads of the religious orders throughout the world, prescribing that a report be sent to the Congregation of Bishops and Regulars, detailing the locality and the names of the houses which deal in alimentary products, such as liquors, beer and confectionery. The new move of the Vatican authorities has caused great surprise there, because for the past fifty years many prominent religious orders like the Carthusians, the Benedictines, the Franciscans and numerous religious congregations have acquired the means of their existence from just the trade about which the Pope now desires full details. It is asserted there that Pius X. intends to suppress all commercial undertakings among the religious orders and congregations, and that he has already appointed a commission of Cardinals belonging to the Congregation of Bishops and Regulars to study the matter.

Commercial proclivities among the minor religious orders have been very common in Italy of late. In Rome itself there are in existence several female religious congregations which make a specialty of confectionery. Or late this has been the case all over Italy, owing to the fact that many religious congregations expelled from France, which had established themselves in Italy, could not start at once successful schools, and had a hard time to provide a living for their inmates. In other countries, however, things are the same. For over a hundred years the Carthusian Monks of the Abbey of Grenoble in France have dealt with the commercial world with a famous liqueur, and have had the implicit approbation of the Holy See, because under the late Pope the order agreed to supply over a million dollars a year out of their profits for the support of ecclesiastical institutions at Rome. Such is the case also with the Benedictine liquor, which has been made a specialty of a liquor which is famed all over the world. Even in the United States there are religious orders which deal in some alimentary specialty, and the Vatican authorities have already been informed that a prominent institution in Pennsylvania makes a large yearly profit from the sale of a special kind of beer which is famed all over the country as an excellent beverage. There is no doubt that Pope Pius X. intends to stop all such commercial transactions, and there is a cry of dismay not only from the religious orders concerned but also from several Roman institutions and colleges which have been mainly supported from the proceeds of these enterprises. For instance, the Benedictine University of St. Anne up on the Aventine was almost wholly built out of the proceeds of the sale of the Benedictine liquor, which brings a profit of about a million dollars a year to the order. The Carthusian Order, like the Benedictine Monks, was ordered by the late Pope to contribute some funds for the support of church institutions, and the Carthusian Order has for over twenty years been giving a million dollars annually for the support of the French College in Rome. The Benedictine Order has practically supported its university out of the sale of the famous liquor.

Prelates who know the trend of opinion of the present Pope say that Pius X. is very strict about rules and discipline, and wishes to reform all the religious orders of the church. Already he has commanded that the sale of the nomenclature, issued by the Curiales, be stopped, and the Pope's command has had an immediate effect. Several religious orders have been suppressed, and the Pope's command has had an immediate effect. Several religious orders have been suppressed, and the Pope's command has had an immediate effect.

The stand of Bishop McQuaid in refusing to be blackmailed, his courageous words in defining his attitude toward his would-be murderers, his admiration in every decent man.

GERMANS ARE RAMPANT.

The Pan-German League that has just completed its Congress at Wiesbaden showed no love for England and in vehement language condemned Great Britain's anti-German policy. The league maintains that Great Britain is continuing to pursue an anti-German policy, the aim of which is to isolate Germany by encircling her with a ring of hostile allied powers. This policy, it is declared, is pursued with the same persistence by the present Liberal Government in England as by the preceding Conservative Cabinet, and can not be changed by mutual visits of journalists and public men or by other demonstrations of sentimental friendship. The enmity between Great Britain and Germany, it is added, is based on real economic and commercial as well as on political rivalries, and Anglo-German relations are determined by these factors alone and not by sympathies and antipathies.

MOURN HIS DEATH.

After a seven-year illness of intense suffering, having with the most heroic fortitude, ex-President Martin Fox, of the Iron Molders' National Union, America's greatest trades union leader and a man of international reputation, passed away at noon Saturday at his home in Cincinnati. He was one of the founders of the American Federation of Labor and was lovingly known as "The Apostle of Industrial Peace," being the first of the national trades union leaders who not only promulgated the ideas of conciliation and arbitration agreements between employers and employees, but put them into the latest Papal encyclical. The new decree issued by Pius X. is rather Draconian in its provisions, because it enjoins the superiors of all religious teaching establishments to exert the utmost vigilance over the teaching imparted in their schools, and if necessary to extend such vigilance over the private correspondence of the inmates of their religious houses, in order to discover if they are in any way connected with the movement, which recently has made so much progress, not only in Italy and France, but in Germany and in America also.

DOWN WITH DEBT.

MacKinn Council Will Cancel All But One Small Note.

With the horse show as a counter attraction Tuesday night, there was only a fair attendance at the meeting of MacKinn Council, but President Sand and those present kept the business of the council moving as usual, receiving the initiation to November 12. The report that Clarence Zook, one of the wheelhorses and a pioneer member, was still sick created a feeling of disappointment, and all expressed the hope that he would soon recover. An announcement was made that Magistrate Patrick T. Sullivan had accepted an invitation and would address the members at the meeting to be held Tuesday, October 15. Secretary Frank Adams turned over a big sum of money to Treasurer Dan Weber, and this with the statement that the improvements recently ordered had been completed and paid for created much enthusiasm.

With the close of this year it is estimated that MacKinn Council will pay off nearly all its indebtedness, which has been the addition of the present administration, and its realization will give cause for another celebration like that of last year, when notes for $2,000 were burned.

DEFIED BY BISHOP.

Scoundrelly Threat Against Life of Right Rev. B. J. McQuaid.

The venerable Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid gave forth some brave utterances on the occasion of the blessing of the graves in the Rochester Catholic cemetery last Sunday week, referring to the threat against his life unless he would give $5,000 to the creatures who threatened his death the fearless reprimand of the day declared:

"I have never had so much money, but had I fifty times that sum, not one dollar of it should go to protect my life against such scoundrels. Such men are a disgrace to the country, which gives them hospitality. I want those who threatened my life to understand that I have no fear of them, even though four of them were to come and pick up dead in the streets of Rochester with a sledgehammer and pickaxe, and I would rather die than pay one dollar which would reflect upon the might and power of the law to protect me."

Treating the threat editorially the Rochester Times said: "Such a plot as the one against the life of Bishop McQuaid is a disgrace to the city. It is aimed at his life can find no root in the diseased brains of perversities, degenerates who revel in assassination, and are enemies of any country which they may curse with their tongue, and respect with their hand, and respect with their hand. They are own vile-plotted brains. They are as likely to direct blade or bullet against the Protestant as the Catholic. Their hand is against every man and every man's hand should be turned for the public good, to deprive the law of its most valued ally. The stand of Bishop McQuaid in refusing to be blackmailed, his courageous words in defining his attitude toward his would-be murderers, his admiration in every decent man."

practical effect in the stove foundry business of the United States and Canada. In the death of the late Martin Fox will come almost a personal bereavement, not only to thousands of trade union men in the United States and Great Britain, but to hundreds of manufacturers and business men, the latter of whom honored and respected him for his many sterling traits of character and his long years of usefulness in the interest of industrial peace between employers and employees. Surviving him are his wife, two sons and five daughters, all grown. His funeral took place Tuesday morning.

CARDINAL HELPLESS.

Ruin That Is Being Wrought by Dissensions in Ireland.

His Eminence Cardinal Logue has addressed an interesting letter to the Council of the Nationalist League, in reply to the council's resolution requesting the Cardinal "to try and bring together the Irish leaders, Messrs. Redmond, Dillon, O'Brien and Healy, and have all differences settled once and for all before the gulf which separates them becomes impossible to bridge." In the letter, one of the most impressive preachers in the province of the great Order of Preachers, a special musical programme, to be rendered by the male choir, has been arranged by Professor Hemmelsch, and a temporary choir of boys will chant the responses and proper parts of the mass. In the afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock will be vespers, chanted by the male choir, a sermon by the Very Rev. J. R. Clark, an earnest and eloquent preacher, and a procession in honor of the great Queen of the Most Holy Rosary. In this procession 300 children will take part, and the Rosary banners will be carried by fifteen young ladies—members of the Blessed Virgin's Sodality. The October devotion began in this church last Tuesday evening and will continue throughout the month. This devotion consists, every evening of first, a brief instruction on some mystery of the Rosary or on the virtue illustrated in the mystery; second, the recitation of the Rosary; thirdly, of benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

"The devotion of the Rosary month," says an eminent authority on the subject, "began in the year 1853, in Spain. By the daily and public recitation of the Rosary in honor of the ever blessed Virgin Mary, mother of God, Pope Pius IX. in the year 1858 enriched this pious practice with considerable indulgences. In the year 1883 Pope Leo XIII. extended the Rosary month to the month of May, and in his encyclical letter 'Supremi Apostolatus' the following indulgences were granted: Seven years and quarantines each time for being present and joining in the public devotion. This indulgence can be gained also by those who are legitimately prevented from being present in church, and who perform it privately and pray for the intention of the Supreme Pontiff. A plenary indulgence is granted to those who assist at it at least ten times in the month of October (or say it privately as above), and receive the sacraments of penance and Holy Eucharist. A plenary indulgence is likewise granted to those who confess and communicate on Rosary Sunday, and during the month of May indulgence may be gained each time the Rosary after be visited from the first vespers of the feast on Saturday afternoon until sunset of Rosary Sunday, provided one receives the sacraments of penance and Holy Eucharist. During the visit prayers must be said for the Pope's intentions. These privileges the Holy Father renewed the following year, and in 1883 he established the 'Rosary Month,' with all the indulgences, with all the power and liberty of the church be restored."

PHOEBUS' DAUGHTER MARRIES.

In last week's Catholic Telegraph was the following notice, which will be read with interest here: "The marriage of Miss Elizabeth O'Brien and Mr. J. H. Haller, of Louisville, Ky., took place Tuesday morning at St. Paul's church, Rev. Dr. Pabstschneider performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass, which followed, assisted by the Revs. Joseph Duerstock and Francis Siefert. Revs. Francis Lauring and George Von der Scharf were also present. The bride is the daughter of Dr. Henry A. Otker, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., who after the death of his young wife began his studies for the priesthood. Father Otker was formerly of Cincinnati, but affiliated with the Nashville diocese. The young couple will make their home in Louisville."

BLESS THIS ORDER.

How few there are who realize the great work being done by the Catholic Knights of America. During the past thirty years of its existence that order has paid the immense sum of $15,029,000.45 to the beneficiaries of 8,574 deceased members. These beneficiaries were, in nearly all cases, widows and orphans. The order has also paid the expenses of many of its members, and of those of whom, having no other means of support, they have taken charge. The order has been able to provide for itself a membership in the Catholic Knights of America, would have had to make sacrifices, suffer many deprivations and perhaps be divided among charitable institutions. In all these things the payment of not a claim has been refused, unless it were notoriously fraudulent, and this fortunately was extremely rare.

BYRNE GOT THE PLACE.

Will J. Byrne, son of the late Martin Byrne and one of the most experienced and widely known live stock men in this section of the country, was on Tuesday night elected by the General Council to the office of Live Stock Inspector for Louisville, succeeding Dr. Hendley. The selection was declared by a vote of 100 to 10. The best of the present council has yet made. Inspector Byrne possesses every qualification for the responsible position, having spent his entire life in the business. Those who have been dealing in impure meats must now discontinue their criminal and loathsome business.

WINS IRISH HOME.

Miss Nellie Mitchell, of Wenham, Mass., has won the Knocknecan estate, a valuable property, with a house, which was the first prize at a bazaar held for the benefit of the church in Roscommon last week. She is a native of Sligo, and will give the place to her parents.

ROSARY SUNDAY

Will Be Observed With Due Solemnity at St. Louis Bertrand's.

Beautiful October Devotion in Honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Source of Great Benefit and Many Indulgences For the Faithful.

TWO SPLENDID SERMONS PROMISED

The feast of the Most Holy Rosary will be observed with the usual due solemnity next Sunday, October 6, in St. Louis Bertrand's church. In the morning there will be solemn high mass and sermon by the Rev. E. V. Flood, one of the most impressive preachers in the province of the great Order of Preachers. A special musical programme, to be rendered by the male choir, has been arranged by Professor Hemmelsch, and a temporary choir of boys will chant the responses and proper parts of the mass. In the afternoon beginning at 3:30 o'clock will be vespers, chanted by the male choir, a sermon by the Very Rev. J. R. Surely, considering the purpose of the Reverend Pontiff Leo XIII. in extending the Rosary devotion throughout the whole church until the peace and liberty of the church be restored, and considering the present sad condition of the church in France and Italy; and the threatening attitude of her enemies in Spain, every Catholic should feel it his duty to take up arms in the restoration of the Rosary devotion, and to unite in public prayers, for the restoration of that peace and liberty so ardently desired. The words of Pope Leo's many encyclicals on the Rosary come to us now, like a voice from the grave, in which he says: "The Rosary is one of the most powerful means of restoring the peace and liberty of the church." In his first encyclical on the Rosary devotion the great Pontiff of revered memory writes: "The heavenly patroness of the human race will receive with joy these prayers and supplications. She will easily obtain that the good grow in goodness and the evil repentant and brought back to salvation; that God who is the avenger of crime, move to compassion and mercy, shall deliver Christendom and civil society from their present dangers, and will store to them that peace which is so much desired."

KREBS OUT AGAIN.

Philip Krebs, Secretary and Treasurer of the Blue & Krebs Stone & Gravel Company, and one of the prominent business men of the city, who had a narrow escape last Friday in a collision with a street car at Fourteenth and Walnut, in which he received a number of painful bruises, is again unable to get on his feet. He is now in the hospital, where he is being treated for his injuries. His buggy collided with an east-bound car and was dished, the occupant falling under the wheels.

CREATES BAD FEELING.

The Irish World's needless alarm regarding the course the Ancient Order of Hibernians will pursue regarding Irish affairs and its controversy over the National Hibernian's unimportant utterance touching the Sinn Féin movement, can effect nothing but bad feeling. There is no reason to doubt the loyalty of the Ancient Order to Irish home rule, which has thus far received its earnest and undivided support. The Irish World knows that the position so nobly maintained can be changed only through the national convention of the order. The National Board, no State Board, no County Board or division has authority to commit the membership to any Irish policy that has not first been submitted to and approved by the national convention. For these good reasons any attempt by outsiders or individual members to direct or censor the order at large upon its Irish policy will prove futile and perhaps cause dissension where none should exist.

With Cardinal Logue, we like to hear the opinions of well-meaning men who have ideas, however foolish, on Irish political questions. We think it does good to discuss without personal attack these questions, and to consider whether, and how, the movement to secure Irish freedom may be strengthened and accelerated. It is just possible that without such discussions Irish politics might grow stagnant and abuses creep in and the fervor of the people grow cool. And we think the sanity and the practicality and the proved value of the political movement inaugurated by Parnell, and carried on by his successors, will appeal the more strongly to the masses of the people the more that policy is contrasted with the half-brained schemes of political enthusiasts of whom there are so many.

The Ancient Order will not stand for any man or measure that would divide its forces, will recognize no faction, but will be ever found in the van in the struggle for Irish freedom. To the Irish people we say that, standing together, they will become irresistible, but this happy condition can never be reached while bickering and dissension continue.

VALID MARRIAGES.

Marriages between Catholics, where the ceremony is performed by a Justice of the Peace, are deemed not valid in the eyes of the church. But they are valid under the laws of the State and the decision of the courts. Is the church herein placing herself "above the State" and defying the civil authority?

To this the Milwaukee Catholic Citizen answers no, declaring the church is doing only what the law conceals her a right to do—prescribing the conditions of membership within her own communion. The attitude of the church on the marriage question amounts to declaring that any Catholic who marries before a Justice of the Peace makes his exit from the Catholic communion—dishonorably discharged.

There is no conflict with the laws of the State. A Catholic judge on the bench, there to interpret and apply the laws of the land, must rule that Catholics married before a Justice of the Peace are validly married under the statutes.

In becoming a citizen of the United States a man yields up certain rights and accepts certain duties. In becoming a member of the Catholic church a man also yields up certain rights—such as marrying before a Justice—and accepts certain obligations—such as that of the Easter duty. In this there is no encroachment of the liberty of the citizen, because one's membership in a church is wholly a matter of free will. And the sanctions are moral sanctions.

STANDS WITH TYLER.

The Republican candidate for Mayor of Cincinnati, Col. Leopold Markbreit, stands with Owen Tyler regarding Sunday laws, which are the same that carried Mayor Busse to victory in Chicago. Col. Markbreit favors front doors being closed on Sunday, but all should enjoy the privilege of access to the orderly saloon. Any violation of the laws of decency should not be brooked, and low dives would not be permitted to run. Neither would he tolerate gambling in gambling houses but if it were done at people's residences he could not consider it any of his business as mayor. "I am," he says, "in favor of wholesome amusements and good theatricals on Sundays. I should favor, in a word, Sunday amusements." Here is a fine opportunity for Reformer Rev. M. P. Hunt, who has become chronic in his tirade and is doing excellent work for the local Democracy.

Investigation has convinced the authorities that Lord Ashtown and his domestics are responsible for the recent explosion that damaged his house, Glenahiry Lodge, in the County of Waterford, Ireland. The police and others have identified the pot containing dynamite and everything connected with the affair as belonging to Ashtown, and the motive ascribed to him is a desire to discredit the Nationalist cause by invading acts of terrorism. This is a specimen of the methods of non-resident Irish landlords.

John T. McDonogh, who was Secretary of State during the two terms that President Roosevelt served as Governor of New York, was last Saturday nominated by Hearst's Independence League for one of the vacant places on the New York Court of Appeals bench. William Randolph Hearst addressed the convention and was bitter in his denunciations of the Legislature, the judiciary, Gov. Hughes, Mayor McClellan, Thomas F. Ryan and others.

Hon. Edward J. Dempsey, who has made Cincinnati an excellent Mayor and given that city an honest and liberal administration, was the unanimous choice of the Democratic convention held Tuesday for another term.

Natural ability, tireless energy, pleasing personality and an experience in city affairs that eminently fits him for the position, are the characteristics of Hon. Owen Tyler, the Democratic nominee for Mayor of Louisville.

Notice the names of the Chicago beef barons who are soon to be haled into court and made pay the penalty due their sins. There isn't a name on the list that has an Irish sound.

IRELAND WITHOUT HERESY.

There is no other nation that did not at some time or other set up some heresy or an anti-Pope. Ireland alone of all the nations never set up a heresy, but always remained true to the successor of St. Peter. Henry VIII. robbed the Anglo-Saxon of his faith, but Ireland, divided in questions of nationality and political economy, was always one in questions of religion. The Dane was resisted to the death, not because he invaded its sanctuaries. Every man was willing to war against the invader, being told by his faith if he fell in such a cause they could claim the martyr's crown. After 400 years, during which Ireland was a vast battlefield, Henry VIII. found that the nation which was incapable of defending its own liberty because of political divisions, became the personification of unity when he touched its religion. Like one man all arose and exclaimed: "The King can rob us of our possessions, he can exile us, he can put us to death, but he can never separate us from the See of Rome or the successor of the Apostles."

GROCERY MAGNATE.

"Jim" Butler, who of late has attracted much attention upon the turf and made Matt Winn manager of his track at Newmarket, not many years ago was a porter in a New York grocery store. He was, however, a hard working and shrewd young Irishman, with his eyes open for opportunities. Saving his money, he opened a grocery store of his own. Then another and then another, until finally today he has nearly two hundred stores in Greater New York. He is rated in the millionaire class. Butler is a Catholic, and has given generously to the church.

SPELL IS BROKE.

Letters from Supreme President Felix Gaudin state that the hot weather spell has been broken and that everywhere confidence and interest in the Catholic Knights of America is being manifested. Notwithstanding the usual summer drawbacks eight new branches have been instituted, and in nearly every city in the country preparations are being made for initiations. Here in Louisville the Knights might well spend some of their spare time in settling forth the advantages of the C. K. of A. and thus strengthening their membership.

THIS IS RICH.

The Boston Citizen (A. P. A.) shows how Archbishop Ireland is running the country. It speaks of him as "the political boss of Minnesota." And yet, it tells us that "John Ireland is hardly known in Minnesota politics." To the voters generally he is simply a shrewd, wily Jesuit prelate. "Must we wonder that he is a Jesuit in disguise? If so, his disguise has succeeded even with the Jesuits."

An old housekeeper says that a sound ripe apple placed in the tin cake box will keep the loaves from drying or crumbling.

REGISTRATION

Shows the Democratic Party In the Lead by Big Majority.

The registration held here Tuesday and Wednesday was the most orderly ever held, the only complaints being against men who are affiliated with the Republican party. Over 45,000 names were registered, the Democrats having a lead of 3,000, which makes them sanguine of success at the November election. Not a complaint was made against the police or firemen, and the election will show that there was no foundation for many of the charges laid against them by hot-headed politicians and partisan newspapers. There will be a supplementary registration for the benefit of those who were sick or absent from the city, but it is not thought the number will be sufficient to make any change from the present standing of the parties. A greater number registered as independent this year than ever before, but there is every reason to believe that when election day comes they will cast their votes for the Democratic ticket.

CONNOLLY-SULLIVAN.

The marriage of Miss Josie C. Sullivan and Dr. John J. Connolly was solemnized with a nuptial mass in the Church of the Holy Name on Tuesday morning, October 1, at 5:30 o'clock. Rev. John O'Connor officiating. Messrs. Thos. and Wm. Sullivan, brothers of the bride, were the attendants. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride on the Grand boulevard to a number of relatives and friends of the happy couple. Later Dr. and Mrs. Connolly left for a trip South, and after October 15 they will be at home to their friends at 2917 Fourth avenue. The bride is one of the most widely known and popular young women in South Louisville, where she has always had a large circle of friends and admirers. Dr. Connolly is a physician of great promise, who formerly resided at Newport. Some years ago he decided to make Louisville his future home, where he would have a wider field for the practice of his profession.

IRISH SPIRIT FOR PRIEST.

Because the parishioners knew his modest character and at the same time were desirous of aiding him financially because of his failing health, members of St. Patrick's church, Chicago, sent their pastor, the Rev. Father T. F. Galligan, out of the city for a week. Then they raised a purse of $3,355 by subscription. On his return the priest was presented with the money and urged to leave Chicago for the winter and go in search of health. This he reluctantly consented to do, but was prevailed upon and this week left on his trip.

MARTIN CUSICK CHOSEN.

Monday night after a banquet at the Seelbach Hotel a local branch of the International Custom Cutters' Association of America was organized. John T. Berry, of Nashville, who is President of the international body, was present as the guest of honor. School Trustee Martin Cusick, who is with J. M. Borntraeger, was the unanimous choice for President. The other officers being Arthur W. Fryxall and W. R. Stanbury. The aim of the organization is to encourage high class work.

DONOHUE RESIGNS.

After years of faithful service Martin J. Donohue, one of the most successful detectives of the Louisville detective department, resigned from the force on Tuesday. His reason therefore was that he was a Democrat and interested in the success of the ticket at the coming election, and by pursuing this course he could act without violating any of the orders of the Mayor or Board of Safety.

REMAINS FOREVER

Lord Macauley and the Perpetuity of the Papacy.

There is not, and never was on this earth, a work of human policy so well deserving of examination as the Roman Catholic church. The history of that church joins together with two great ages of human civilization. No other institution is left standing which carries the mind back to the time when the smoke of sacrifice rose from the Pantheon, and when consuls and emperors and kings and the Flavian amphitheatre. The proudest royal houses are but of yesterday when compared with the line we trace back in an unbroken series, from the Pope who crowned Napoleon in the nineteenth century to the Pope who crowned Pepin in the eighth; and far beyond the time of Pepin the august dynasty extends, till it is lost in the twilight of fable. The republic of Venice came next in antiquity. But the republic of Venice was modern when compared with the Papacy; and the republic of Venice is gone, and the Papacy remains. The Papacy remains, not in decay, not a mere antique, but full of life and youthful vigor. The Catholic church is still sending forth to the farthest ends of the world missionaries as zealous as those who landed in Kent with Augustine, and still confronting hostile kings with the same spirit with which she confronted Attila. The number of her faithful millions grows and many of her former age. Her acquisitions in the New World have more than compensated for what she has lost in the old. Her spiritual ascendancy extends over the vast countries which lie between the plains of the Missouri and Cape Horn, countries which, a century hence, may not improbably contain a population as large as that which now inhabits Europe. The members of her communion are certainly not fewer than 150 millions, and it will be difficult to show that other Christian sects united amount to 120 millions.

Nor do we see any sign which indicates that the term of her long dominion is approaching. She saves the commencement of the governments that now exist in the world; and we feel no assurance that she is not destined to see the end of them all. She was great and respected before the Saxon had set foot on Britain, before the Frank had passed the Rhine, when Grecian eloquence still flourished at Antioch, when idols were still worshipped in the temples of Mecca. And she may still exist in undiminished vigor when some traveler from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of London bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Former National President Keating addressed the Milwaukee Hibernians Tuesday evening.

Next week we will announce the programme for the jollification that Division 2 is preparing for.

The meeting of Division 3 this week was largely attended. It is said this division will have another class for the October initiation.

Every member of Division 1 is expected to attend next Friday night, but especially those who were absent from the last meeting.

Syracuse Hibernians will have a big initiation next Thursday night, and all of the ten divisions are striving to have the largest class.

The contest for Queen of the St. Patrick's Hibernian carnival has become exciting. Six candidates having entered with more to follow.

At the last meeting of Division 1 of Duluth the proceedings were made interesting by an instructive discussion of the situation in Ireland.

Our local Ladies' Auxiliary made another large addition to its treasury this week. The members are hustlers and set a good example for the divisions to follow.

The announcement that the next initiation would take place under the auspices of Division 4 meets with much favor, and it is almost certain that a large class will receive the degrees.

The order in Manchester, N. H., has presented the Cathedral, St. Patrick's, St. Anne's and St. Raphael's schools with Irish histories, and their study was introduced at the beginning of this school term.

Wednesday night the Ladies' Auxiliary had a splendid meeting, many being present after a protracted absence. This organization is making progress and expects to greatly increase its membership before the first of the year.

Division 5 of Denver certainly knows how to entertain its friends. The programme for the last meeting included an address by Rev. Father McMenamin and musical and literary exercises, after which there was dancing and all ending with light refreshments served by the ladies.

The banquet given by the Hibernians of Brainerd, Minn., in memory of Robert Emmet was a success in every particular. About 140 ladies and gentlemen sat down to the banquet table. The best address was delivered by Rev. J. J. O'Mahoney, who had for his subject "The Irish in America."

The Hibernians of Butte gathered to the number of several hundred in Hibernian Hall, at Centerville, Mont., last week, the occasion being a visit from the State Chaplain of the order, Bishop John P. Carroll. The Bishop was accompanied by the Rev. Father DeSiere and John J. O'Meara, State President. The meeting was presided over by State President O'Meara, who delivered a short but appropriate address of welcome, and was followed by County President Jackson, D. J. Hennessy, Judge Jerry J. Lynch, T. J. McCarthy and Father DeSiere.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Else-where.

The Denver council has organized a glee club with a membership of forty vocalists.

Utica Knights last week conferred the second degree upon fifteen candidates and received twelve applications.

Many visiting Knights witnessed the initiation of a class of forty candidates last Sunday at San Antonio, Texas.

Milwaukee Knights are now inclined to form a corporation among the members for the purchase of a site and the erection of a building, leasing permanent quarters to the two councils there.

Bronx Council, about the first to achieve any measure of success in the work of the order in New York City, will have a public demonstration in celebration of its tenth anniversary next Thursday night.

It is expected that at least 1,500 Knights will be in line on Sunday, October 13, at Providence, when the Rhode Island State Council will celebrate Discovery day by having a parade and attending services at the Cathedral.

Capital City Council, of Austin, Texas, has prepared for a suitable celebration of Columbus day. Rev. P. J. Carroll, C. S. C., President of St. Edward's College, will deliver an oration on the life and character of Columbus, and in the afternoon there will be an exemplification and smoker.

The National Order of the Daughters of Isabella, a society of Catholic women, founded on lines similar to those of the Knights of Columbus, excepting that it has no system of life insurance, has in the short space of three years, since its foundation at Utica and its incorporation in 1903, grown from one local court to seventy-six courts in seventeen States, with a membership of 6,700.

IRISHLAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

After being exiled from his farm for nearly twenty years, D. Buckley, of Rockfield, near Castleisland, County Kerry, has been reinstated. A public demonstration of rejoicing was held.

Justice J. J. Kelly, of Castleblaney, recently appointed an inspector under the Local Government Board in connection with the laborers' acts, held his first inquiry in Kinnaree and gave satisfaction to all parties.

The death of Robert Fitzpatrick occasioned intense sorrow at Bally-train. His funeral to Lough Esch was the largest ever seen in this district, over a mile of road being covered with vehicles and pedestrians who came to pay the last homage of respect to his memory.

On Saturday Daniel Kelly paid a visit to Castleblaney to see his wife, Mrs. Margaret Kelly, and her baby, who with three other women are undergoing a month's imprisonment for refusing to give bail at a special court at Ballinabryer on the charge of intimidating a rancher named William Glover. He found all the women in good health and spirits.

Thomas Connelley, St. Louis prominent in the business and social life of Dundalk, died on Saturday morning, September 21, at his residence, Seatown Place. The deceased, who had attained the ripe age of seventy-nine years, had been in failing health for some time and his death was not unexpected. He died fortified by the rites of the church, of which during life he was a steadfast member.

Information has reached Brosna, County Kerry, that a farmer named Cantillon, residing some seven miles distant from the town, was attacked by a huge bull and shockingly mangled and lacerated. A man who happened to be near at the time came to the rescue of the unfortunate man and beat off the infuriated beast after a severe struggle, but not before it had inflicted shocking injuries on its victim.

Dr. Brady, the popular medical officer of the Ballinagh Dispensary district, has the sympathy of the people of Cavan Union, more especially those of the Ballinagh district, in his bereavement owing to the death of his wife, which took place rather suddenly on Saturday. Dr. Brady had only just resumed duty after a long and painful illness, contracted in the discharge of his duty, when the end event took place.

On the occasion of his first return to the parish the people of Clonoe took the opportunity of presenting Rev. Thomas McEllen, lately transferred to Faughart, with an address and souvenir in appreciation of his work during six years among them.

The winter sessions of the Gaelic League opened at many places last Sunday night with public meetings. The language movement has made much headway during the past twelvemonth.

A massive cross of Irish limestone has been erected over the grave of the late Most Rev. Dr. Edward McGennis, Lord Bishop of Kilmore, on the grounds of the Cathedral, Cavan, the place of interment being chosen by his Lordship about twelve months previous to his lamented demise. The cross, which is of elated design, is of Celtic pattern, bears a chalice and host, set in a nimbus carved in the center, emblematic of his Lordship's sacred office. The shaft is set in two steps or bases, and is over sixteen feet in height.

THEATICAL.

"Antony and Cleopatra," the spectacular tragedy in which Charles B. Hanford, in a strong supporting company is this year appearing with marked success, will be Macquley's offering for the first half of next week. The role of Cleopatra will be assumed by Miss Alice Wilson.

The Mary Anderson Theater will next week present another of its splendid and varied bills, every turn of which is of headline worth. The programme is evenly balanced and the week should prove a good one from every standpoint, the advances, vaudeville having caught on to the public favor.

The merry musical comedy, "Widow of Oz," which has amused the theater-going public for years at high prices, comes to the Masonic for all of next week and will be equal to anything offered at that play-house this season. Everywhere it has scored a big hit, and judged from the advance sale the theater will be crowded nightly.

Continuous vaudeville continues to grow in favor and with each week the attendance in the Hopkins is on the increase. A bit in keeping with its worthy predecessors is promised for next week. Ward and Curran, in their new version of "The Terrible Judge," will be the headliners. Five big feature acts will be seen in addition to nine other numbers, including the kindred, which will present the first reproduction of the recent Elks' parade at Philadelphia as its chief film.

CATHOLIC CHARITY.

W. C. Frederick, for many years a minister of the Dunkards, but now old and destitute, has been admitted with his wife into the Home of the Little Sisters of the Poor at Cincinnati. Mrs. Frederick, who is seventy-three years old, has been a Catholic all her life with the approval of her husband, who he declared his intention of embracing the Catholic faith and spending his last years in its practice.

Consult the Parents

Nine times out of ten when a girl's parents oppose her marriage they have some excellent reason for their opposition. From their experience of life and its handicaps they know that the young man is not ready to shoulder the responsibilities of married life. Or perhaps they realize that he is not fit to make their willful little daughter happy. No girl should become formally engaged

FORTY HOURS

The Forty Hours' adoration began at St. Philip Neri's church last Sunday and came to a solemn close on Tuesday. All the services were well attended and Father Ackermann is delighted over the results.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

The many friends of the Rev. Father M. A. McFeely, O. P., of St. Louis Bertrand, will regret to learn that his condition is unchanged and that he is unable to leave St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital.

LOSS NOT MUCH.

The fact that the cocktail yarn beat Vice President Fairbanks as a candidate for lay delegate to a church conference reflects less upon him than the narrow-mindedness of the good people upon whose votes he depended for election.

PRIEST'S HEROISM.

Application has been made to the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for a medal and other recognition for the Rev. Thomas Dougherty of the Catholic church at Bridgeville, about fifteen miles from Pittsburgh. One night recently the quick wit and strong arm of the priest saved six lives.

Three Great Skirt Values

We have held many skirt sales before—all of which proved to be of special benefit to our customers. This sale will establish for us a new precedent, for the values are decidedly the best we have ever offered. So great are they that we feel a word of explanation is due. A New York manufacturer, to keep his skirt hands busy during the dull season, July and August, made up these skirts in quantity. His production, however, was greater than his outlet, owing to the tightened money conditions. We relieved him of his predicament in part by taking off his hands several hundred of these skirts. The inducement to us was about half price. These skirts are now on sale at the same remarkable price concessions.

The lot consists of Panama, Mohair, Serge and Cheviot Skirts, in black, navy and brown; skirts in fancy mixtures, checks and stripes, in all the latest full-plaited styles; some trimmed with tailor straps, others with the bias folds and bands of taffeta silk; skirts that were made to sell at $3.50, $4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 each; the entire purchase divided for quick selling into three great bargain lots as follows:

The $3.50 and $4 Skirts for $1.98

The $4.50 and $5 Skirts for $2.98

The $6. and $7 Skirts for $3.98

CHURCH WAS FILLED.

When the Anniversary of St. Michael's Was Observed Sunday.

Rev. Martin O'Connor, the good pastor of St. Michael's church on Brook street, has reason for congratulation on the celebration of the forty-first anniversary of that church and its members, which occurred last Sunday. At all the services the edifice was thronged, especially at the high mass, when a masterly sermon was preached by the Rev. Thomas York, and all crowned by a happy heart to heart talk by the venerable Bishop of the diocese, who graced the occasion by his presence and met many of the older parishioners.

In the evening the church was again crowded at the solemn vespers, when Rev. Patrick Walsh delivered the sermon. The musical programme was a special feature of the services and was splendidly rendered. Myriads of lights and beautiful flowers adorned the sanctuary, and after each service there were meetings of many who had been members of the congregation in the long ago. Monday morning Father O'Connor officiated at the mass of requiem for the deceased members of the parish, which brought to a close a celebration that will be for years a happy remembrance to all who were present.

GOOD SOUL GONE.

Mrs. Kate Grady Warner died Wednesday afternoon after a lingering illness at the family residence, 523 West Chestnut street. Mrs. Warner was a devout and life long member of the Cathedral parish, and was the possessor of a bright and cheerful disposition, which had made for her a host of friends, who will remember and sincerely mourn her in the years to come. During her long illness Mrs. Warner bore her suffering with Christian fortitude, knowing that God in His mercy would after a time call her to her reward. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Mary Belle Zell, and three sisters, Misses Ella and Lizzie Grady and Mrs. Dennis Illnes, and one brother, Tim Grady. The funeral took place from the Cathedral yesterday morning with a requiem mass, and the interment was in St. Louis cemetery.

GRAND PRIZE EUREKA.

The Pastime Drill Company, which in recent years has attained much popularity through its numerous excellent entertainments and social affairs, has arranged for a grand prize eureka, which will take place at the hall at Seventeenth and Southgate streets on Monday evening, October 21. This year the members will be assisted by their lady friends, and an enjoyable time will be provided for all who take part in the games. The prizes for this eureka are many and valuable and worthy an earnest contest.

FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The All-Professionals, composed of the local hall players that have been away all season, will cross bats with the Louisville Giants at Eclipse Park tomorrow afternoon. The Giants have defeated some of the best amateur teams around these parts and naturally feel that they will crown their series of victories by defeating the All-Professionals tomorrow. Steve Kane, the American Association umpire, will handle the indicator and the game will be called at 3:15 o'clock.

SURPRISE CLUB EUREKA.

The Surprise Club will entertain with a eureka at the residence of Mrs. Clara Ramp, 765 Twenty-seventh street, next Tuesday evening, October 8. The proceeds derived from the eureka will be devoted to charitable purposes. A special committee, composed of Mesdames John Carr, Charles Jacques and Clara Ramp, have secured handsome prizes for the winners.

RECENT DEATHS.

Edward and Kate Brown, 1206 Eighth street, have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in the loss of their infant son, Daniel Halpin, whose death followed a short illness. The funeral took place Sunday, the body being tenderly laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Moritz, who succumbed to organic heart disease due to her advanced age, took place yesterday morning from St. Anthony's church, of which she was one of the pioneer members. Surviving her are two sons, John and George Moritz, and one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Seunig.

Marlin J. Kelly, twenty-one years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly, 1205 Eighth street, died at an early hour Wednesday, after an illness contracted two years ago. He was popular among his associates and devoted to his parents, for whom there is felt the most sincere sympathy in their bereavement. With a solemn mass of requiem the funeral took place yesterday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church.

With feelings of inexpressible grief the relatives and friends of Mrs. Anna Murphy Reiling learned Tuesday morning of her sudden and unexpected death. Deceased was the widow of John Reiling, whose death occurred only recently. The unfortunate woman was stricken Monday night with hemorrhage at her home, 1205 Churchill street, and was removed to Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, where she expired an hour later despite every effort, leaving two young children to mourn her death. Mrs. Reiling leaves one son, John, and three sisters, Mrs. Nellie and Mollie Murphy. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. William's church with solemn mass of requiem, Rev. Denis Murphy officiating.

CAPT. MAHER BETTER.

The condition of Capt. Thomas Maher, the efficient Chief of the Louisville detective department, who has been in the hospital for two weeks suffering from stomach trouble, is reported much improved, and the public will be gratified to know it is thought that he will be able to take charge of the force next week.

HIS ARM CUT OFF.

John Walsh, a well known employee of the Louisville Power Company, was maimed for life in an accident that occurred at that plant on Tuesday. While in the performance of his duty his left arm was caught in the machinery and crushed almost to the elbow. He was at once removed to his home, 2708 Cedar street, and medical assistance summoned. The arm was so badly mangled that amputation was necessary.

DOMINICANS

Officiate at Feast Day Ceremonies at St. Boniface Church.

With impressive but brilliant ceremonies the feast day of St. Francis was observed at St. Boniface church on Thursday. Among the Franciscans and their devoted followers this is one of the great church events of the year, and is nowhere celebrated with more pomp and splendor than here in Louisville. The beautiful edifice was thronged with people long before 2 o'clock, the hour for the solemn high mass, and the impression made on the beholder was one not to be soon forgotten.

As is the custom, the Dominican fathers officiated, the mass being sung by the Rev. Father Logan, Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's, assisted by Father Clark as deacon and Father Kernan as subdeacon. When the white-robed sons of St. Dominic entered the sanctuary preceding the Franciscans in their brown habits a scene was presented that is not frequently witnessed, but it was one that greatly pleased our German Catholic people. After the mass the visiting clergy were entertained at the monastery adjoining the church.

PLANS ARE NOW READY.

The Pope's architect at Rome has sent Bishop Thomas S. Byrne, of Nashville, the specifications for the construction of the new and handsome Cathedral to be erected on West End avenue between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues, and architects have drafted plans from these specifications for the new building. The plan of the building is to be of Roman architecture, of gray brick and stone construction, with stone trimmings and the roof. It is to be one of the handsomest buildings in the South and will cost, between $350,000 and $500,000. The new Cathedral will be started next spring and the process of construction will embrace about eighteen months from the time the contracts are closed.

HURRAH FOR CUDAHY.

The people of this city will be much pleased to learn that John Cudahy, Jr., son of the famous Chicago meat packer, arrived here this week and will make Louisville his home. For years Mr. Cudahy has been a factor in Chicago business circles, popular and respected by everybody, and it is safe to say that it will not be long until his presence is felt in the local commercial world. The Cudahys have extensive interests here, which under his administration will doubtless be largely increased. All who would boom Louisville will welcome this most desired acquisition to their midst.

CONDITION CRITICAL.

Though her condition was critical Thursday hopes were still entertained for the recovery of Mrs. Anna Ryan, the aged mother of Joseph Ryan, division freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, who fell down stairs Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tim J. Leahy, on East Oak street. Mrs. Ryan was unaccountably when assistance reached her, and when removed to Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital it was found she had sustained a broken arm and serious bruises about the head.

WELCOME VISITORS.

John Lukemeyer and James G. Noonan, two of Frankfort's most prominent young men and both native in the business and political life of the Capital city, were welcome visitors here this week. They came to visit friends and the horse show, so well were they treated that it need not be surprising if in the near future they locate here. Both return home tomorrow, and by a number of young ladies their departure is sincerely regretted.

CORNELL'S CHAPLAIN.

With the appointment by Bishop McQuaid of Father James P. Winters, assistant rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Ithaca, as Catholic chaplain of Cornell University, the Catholic church has made its first step toward the establishment of a chapel and residence hall in the neighborhood of the Cornell campus. Father Winters is very popular among the students and the faculty.
